"I am the king, the shepherd of the land, who establishes the foundations of the land... I am the one who rules the people, I am the one who smites the enemies of the land. I made the land grow and flourish, and in my reign, the wealth of the land flows like a river."

-Stele of Shulgi

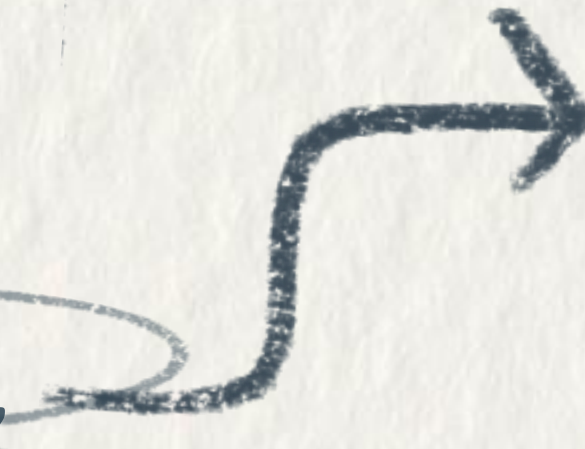

"I am Sargon, the mighty king. I have made the four corners of the earth bow to me. I am the one who created the empire, who raised it from the dust, and who ruled over all the lands. My name will echo in the heavens for eternity."

Psalms 105:12-13 ^{NIV}

When they were but few in number,
few indeed, and strangers in it,
¹³ they wandered from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another.

Deuteronomy 7:7 ^{NIV}

The LORD did not set his affection on you and choose you because you were more numerous than other peoples, for you were the fewest of all peoples.

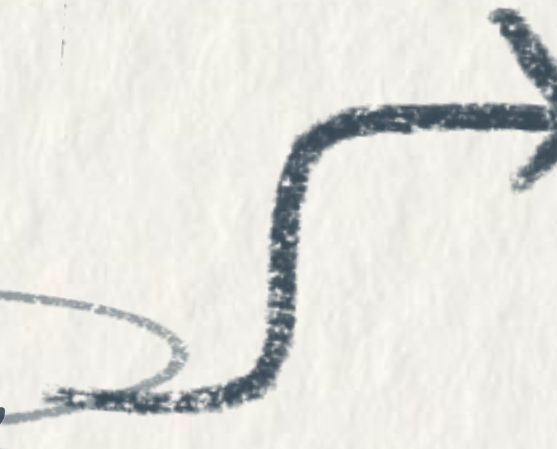

“The stories that are recounted in Israel’s festivals, feasts, and scriptures do not merely recall past events; they enact them in the present. By retelling the stories, Israel continually brings its past into its present experience, making the events of salvation not only remembered but re-experienced. These practices function as a means of sustaining the identity of the community, so that the past becomes the present, and the community’s history becomes its living reality.”

they did not remember your many kindnesses,
and they rebelled by the sea, the Red Sea.

Psalm 106:13 NIV

But they soon forgot what he had done
and did not wait for his plan to unfold.

How do we Remember?

In the public telling

“ ‘We cannot divorce the act of remembering from the act of communicating...Recollections arise not from the depths of a storehouse in the head, but from a desire to communicate with others about the personal past.’ Often the telling to other people is the remembering.”

- Richard Bauckham, Jesus and the Eyewitnesses

Psalms 105:39-41 ^{NIV}

He spread out a cloud as a covering,
and a fire to give light at night.

⁴⁰ They asked, and he brought them quail;
he fed them well with the bread of heaven.

⁴¹ He opened the rock, and water gushed out;
it flowed like a river in the desert.
